Meeting discussion has been made as per agenda.

1) Effective Learning.

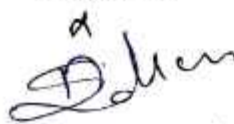

- It can be as effective as face-to-face training, and reduces costs.
- E-learning content can support self-paced learning, where learners are free on their individual needs and interests.

2) E-learning Content

- E-learning content can be complemented by social interaction.
- A facilitated/instructor-led e-learning course, scheduled and led by an instructor and/or facilitator through an online learning platform, can integrate e-learning content with facilitation and collaboration activities.
- An effective way of delivering e-learning can be to complement it with Face-to-face training within the same capacity-development programme (blended learning).
- In a blended approach, e-learning sessions can be integrated with face-to-face activities, using a variety of solutions.
- In certain learning contexts and settings, e-learning resources can be made available for learning on mobile devices, such as smartphones and tablets.

3) Appropriate/Effective Format

- Proper and correct format has been implemented so E-learning will become more effective.

2	Asst.Prof. Priti Kumbhojkar
3	Asst.Prof.Divya Bhandari
4	Asst.Prof.Veda Khirit

Meeting discussion has been made as per agenda.

1) Cycle of learning events (core):

- Reading, watching and self-study: This can include different types of content, such as simple learning resources (documents and presentations), video and audio content, and interactive e-learning lessons. E-learning lessons enable the facilitator to track and control learners' behavior, for example, seeing if they complete the lesson.

- Individual assignments and collaborative project work: The facilitator asks learners to conduct project work or an assignment, either in a group or individually. Learners may also be asked to comment on each other's assignments. An assignment should be well-structured and possibly followed by a discussion on the strategies used to complete it.

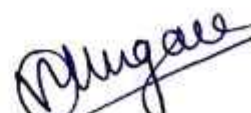

2) Planning learning sessions and activities:

- In designing the course, it is important to carefully plan all the activities (selfpaced learning, discussions, assignments, quizzes, etc.) That will be part of it, and prepare the materials to be included, and detail the activities that will be carried out in each session. If required, E-learning content will also be prepared, or existing content adapted to the Developing a storyboard that describes all the activities for each session will facilitate the creation of the course on the learning management system. A Word document or an Excel spreadsheet can be used to develop the storyboard.
